THE JUNE ISSUE OF LIME IS OUT NOW!
LIME CELEBRATES REMARKABLE MEN!

Welcome to the June issue of Lime Magazine, the exciting publication which brings the best of London's cultural arts to you every month. As the capital's leading cultural listings guide, we'll be recommending to you all the best theatre productions, gigs, comedy shows, exhibitions, places to eat, films, events, concerts and clubs, plus interviews with some of the most exciting talents in entertainment and reviews, too.

This month:

At Lime HQ, we've declared June 2010 the month of remarkable men. It's only fair we dedicate some love to them since our March issue was all about the lovely ladies. Too often we leave the men out, so this month we thought it was our duty to put the £ on the chest of all the supermen out there and the fact that it's Men's Health Week, Father's Day and the 2010 FIFA World Cup this month doesn't hurt!

In this testosterone-packed issue we shine the spotlight on some remarkable men, their remarkable stories and lives. We also take a look at the hottest male talent in theatre, film, art, music, community and fashion. Inspirational Brit-flick director, actor and writer Noel Clarke spills the beans on his latest film 4.3.2.1; while award-winning comedian and presenter Richard Blackwood reveals the highs and lows of his career thus far.

In music, DJ Ironik is back and tells Lime about his latest attack on the charts, acclaimed Gospel singer Muiywa tells us about the Remarkable Men who have inspired his career and talented rapper by night, doctor by day. Chima Anya reveals why music is his medicine. In the club section, 1Xtra's Ace reveals his best and worst interviews and in theatre the cast of Sucker Punch - written by acclaimed playwright Roy Williams - share their on-stage experiences. If that isn't enough for you gents, we have a complete guide to the beautiful game, an exclusive interview with Baff Akoto writer and director of award-winning film Football Fables and a World Cup special on the best places to watch the footie!
